

Cyber Security

NEWS

OF THE DAY

#learntorise

Hackers demand Rs 200cr in cryptocurrency from AIIMS-Delhi as server remains down for 6th day.

The Irish data privacy watchdog levied a 265 million euro fine against Facebook parent company Meta after a data set containing details of more than half a billion social media users last year appeared online.

The Black Basta ransomware group is using Qakbot malware — also known as QBot or Pinkslipbot — to perpetrate an aggressive and widespread campaign using an .IMG file as the initial compromise vector.

#learntorise

Hackers are using a popular TikTok challenge to get people to download information-stealing malware

India's Telecom Regulatory Authority (TRAI) has announced a fresh crackdown on TXT spam – this time using artificial intelligence, after a previous Fortinet launches FortiGate Cloud-Native Firewall (FortiGate CNF) on Amazon Web Services (AWS), an enterprise-grade, managed next-generation firewall service specifically designed for AWS environments.

Group-IB, a cybersecurity company, has issued a press release reporting that 34 Russian cybercrime gangs have compromised 50-million accounts through a stealer-as-a-service scam.

#learntorise

Southampton County in Virginia last week started informing individuals that their personal information might have been compromised in a ransomware attack.

The U.S. Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) on Monday added a critical flaw impacting Oracle Fusion Middleware to its Known Exploited Vulnerabilities (KEV) Catalog, citing evidence of active exploitation.

Cybercriminals are cashing in on FIFA World Cup-themed cyberattacks

